What Sets Our Work Apart

Everything we do, we do as if for the first time.

Although we don't reinvent the wheel on every project, we understand that your personality, desires, aesthetics, timing, and budget demand an entirely original response.

We apply the same orderly process to develop all our projects, but your home or workplace won't look like any other.

Whatever the size of your architectural aspirations, or its location around the world, that's what differentiates our design and thinking.

Live. Work. Play.

We believe architecture should enhance the human experience.

Our Team

We have always had a strong history of talented people working with us at Gillis Architects. A diverse group of people from across the world, who are genuinely sincere in their efforts to give our clients exactly what they want.

Over the years we've adapted our business model to meet the times. Now we operate with a small core team, bringing in valued collaborators and contractors only as needed for our projects.

This allows us to focus on our individual strengths and build close client relationships, producing outstanding work that's cost-effective yet still maintains the highest standards of quality and professionalism.
